The Denver Recorder Society invites you to join us in our first all online season with a session by:

Annette Bauer
March 21, 2021
2:00-3:30

Music by Josquin!

2021 marks the 500th death anniversary of the French composer Josquin des Pres (ca. 1450/55 -1521). Josquin is considered to be the most famous composer in the generation between Dufay and Palestrina, and one of the most central figures in the Franco-Flemish style of Renaissance polyphony. He wrote sacred and secular music in a wide variety of styles, and was lauded by his contemporaries as well as the following generations for his melodic genius and mastery of polyphonic imitation techniques. This meeting will focus on music by Josquin, exploring some vocal pieces as well as instrumental compositions.

Annette Bauer is a recorder player and multi-instrumentalist with a wide range of musical interests and expertise. She spent the past eight years as a musician for the Cirque du Soleil show TOTEM, with over 2300 performances in the US, Canada, Europe, Russia, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, and Singapore. Before that, she called the San Francisco Bay Area her home for over a decade. There, she studied classical Indian music on sarode at the Ali Akbar College of Music, and worked as a freelance musician all over the US with early music groups such as Farallon Recorder Quartet, Ensemble Cançonier, Les Grâces Baroque Ensemble, Pittaro, Texas Early Music Project, and her own cross-over project The Lost Mode. Annette was born and raised in Germany, holds a diploma in historical performance practice of medieval and Renaissance music from the Schola Cantorum in Basel, Switzerland, and an MA in music from the University of California in Santa Cruz. Annette was on parental leave with her baby daughter when the covid pandemic shut down the performing arts all over the world in 2020. She is currently sharing her love of music by offering online teaching to students of all ages, including an ongoing class on medieval and Renaissance notation through Amherst Early Music.

Costs:
Annual DRS Membership: $30
Cost per session: $5 Pay at:
https://www.paypal.com/paypalme/denrecsoc
or mail to:
Woody Colahan
1636 S Winona Court
Denver, CO 80219

Questions or concerns - email us at:
denverrecorder@gmail.com